Rev. Erwin House, in closing his School Books for Young men of Indianal suffer one to exhort you who, though a young man of Ohio, has his heart's sympathies with you. In the work of carrying forward to a complete triumph the temperance cause in your state, you have much to do. Rest not now.—

The remained door of recedition is with The yawning door of perdition is wide open in your midst. Will you let it continue open? Will you let desolation still blight the fairest portions of your s continue open? Will you let desolation still blight the fairest portions of your state? Are you willing to see your friends, and your brothers, and your sisters around you drowned in the damning pool? Will you stand by unmoved, while the bride of to-day becomes the forlorn widow of to-morrow. and will you be idle, too, as you behood sink down to darkness and the worm? Momentous events are before you, and momentous trusts are reposed litrinsic merit for instruction has been in your hands for keeping. A mighty cloud of witnesses encompass you, and home, and friends, and patriotism, and honor, and heaven summon you to work. You tread at every advancing step on the dust of moral heroes, and white-robed Love, floating in mid-air

IT One of the Compilers, Mr Gisson, will be recognized as the Lender of the celebrated "GIBSON FAMILY," whose Concerts in the Western Country have delighted so many audiences.

The authors have spenta large amount of labor, time and money, in preparing the work; and the Publishers have spared no expense to make the book neat and tasteful; and in style of publishing, altogether superior to the Boston and New York Music Books. It will be more substantially made—for, instead of being taped, it will be well sewed; and backed with colored leather, instead of with ordinary split sheep skin.

It is not intended that the book shall fall in pieces before the owner has scarcely begun to use it—quite the contrary—the intention is to furnish a first rate book, at a low price. Besides a large variety of New Tunes of a popular character, the collection of Familiar Old Tunes, will be found to be excellent and admirable.

Bobinson's Mathematics, and to report my opinion thereof. I have with pleasure made myself as well acquainted with the specific merits of the books, as I well could without the actual using of them in the recitation room. Prof. Robinson must be, I should judge from his books, a keen, sprightly and thorough Maihematician.—He would seem to have, either as the gift of nature, or the result of study and practice, a quick intuitive perception of mathematical principles, and to be romarkably adopt ig artifices for abbreviating the methods of solving problems.

The Algebra is clear and sufficiently eithers of solving them. This work is sumfciently extensive for the oreinary purposes of a course of College instruction.

The Geometry embodies a great amount of Geometry embodies a great amount of Geometry embodies a great amount of Geometry embodies as great amount of G for the oreinary purposes of a course of College instruction.

The Geometry embodies a great amount of Geometric knowledge in a compass smaller than usual. The diagrams are well conceived and remarkably well executed.

The Trentise on Surveying and Navigation is full, and gives many interesting facts which may be new to most of our students. The diagrams are, as in the Geometry, unusually well done.

The natural Philosophy is decidedly interesting, not only for its matter, but for the mauner in which principles are explaned and facts stated. Not only the student but the general render may flud amusement and profit from the book.

In Claring in Claring in the strong dst terms. A case of Asthma, the severest I ever saw, to which I was called a mouth ago, evinced the superiority of the Bulsam. It is steed him six weeks, and the dyspepsia and suffering was dreadful; he ant up every night. The gentleman told me to give him something to last him home, (24 miles.) so that he might see his wife and child, and die in peace. I gave him one bottle of Balsam, directing him to take tenspoon-ull doses when the dimently of breathing was the greatest. Next day I forced his despondent will nd made him take six bottles of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry home with him, as a present, be Cigars, Tobacco and Snuff. having alleged that he had used so much expensive medicine to no profit.
